CHILD GIVEN TO MOTHER

Coonrod-Gable Case Heard Friday

DELLA MARIE COONROD

Given Into the Custody of Mrs. R. C. Gable

Proceedings Began More Than a Year Ago When the Defendant Married Her Second Husband.

The suit of Charles M. Coonrod against his former wife, Della Marie Coonrod, now Mrs. R. C. Gable, to secure possession of his six-year-old child, Della Marie, was heard by Judge Young of the court of common pleas Friday. The proceedings began more than a year ago, shortly after the defendant had married her second husband. There were 29 witnesses subpoenaed and it required the greater part of the day to complete the hearing.

Mrs. Coonrod obtained a divorce in February, 1904, and was given the custody of the child. Everything went well until October, 1905, when she went to Warren with R. C. Gable, whom Coonrod claims was at that time a county fair fakir. After hearing that his wife had left with Gable, taking the child with her, Coonrod sent a policeman on their trail. At Warren the policeman took charge of the child and brought it back to Coonrod.

Mrs. Coonrod and Gable were married and they came to Marion to make their home. Mrs. Gable, acting under authority of the court, obtained possession of the child and shortly afterward Coonrod brought suit to regain the custody of the little one.

Mrs. Gable claims that her former husband is unfit to care for his child. She says that her present husband, Gable, is making $35 a week in a Cleveland restaurant and that the child has a good home.

At 2 o'clock the testimony being in the court gave the mother the custody of the child as long as she proved herself a competent person to care for her daughter. The court in rendering the decision stated that in such a case where both parents were suitable persons to be given the custody of a child, the mother is the proper one to look after a minor child, especially if the child be a girl.

Judge Young Friday placed the bond of Robert Burns, the Springfield man now in jail here on the charge of horse stealing at $500. Burns thinks that he has friends who will furnish the bond and secure his liberty until time for trial. The supreme court recently granted Burns a new trial after he had been in the penitentiary several months.

The divorce suit of Monie E. Peiffer against John Peiffer was heard by Judge Young Friday after noon. The decision was held in reserve until more witnesses can be examined. The defendant was not represented.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Funeral services over the remains of Charles Hersey, who was cremated in the fire, which destroyed the barn in which he made his home, were held at one o'clock this afternoon, at the undertaking establishment of Charles F. Hess, on South Main street. Rev. L. C. Reed, of the United Brethren Church, preached the sermon. The remains were buried in Marion cemetery.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY.

EASY MONEY

Uncle Samuel will Pay the Bill of $75,000.

It may be hard to believe, but there are a number of people in Marion who think that Congressman Mosser did the city more harm than good when he secured an appropriation of $75,000 for a new postoffice building. This morning the congressman learned that these people imagine that the cost of the building will be placed against taxpayers.

For the enlightenment of all who have got this erroneous idea of the government building project in their heads, the congressman and his friends want to announce that Uncle Sam and not the taxpayers of Marion will pay the $75,000.
